The NMPA Project Technical Team meets on a monthly basis to discuss the work of the audit and the progress against deliverables. The project team receives Involvement Group, and the HQIP Independent Advisory Group. (all ToRs shared as part of this report).

The Project Technical Team reports into the NMPA Project Board (with representatives from the RCOG, RCM, RCPCH and three nations) bi-annually. This is t systems.

The NMPA is also one project within the Clinical Quality Projects section, which has a Head, who works to ensure consistency in projects delivery, and also ch other across CQ.

2.4 Stakeholder engagement A number of organisations representing women using maternity services have been involved in the design and implementation of the audit and will continue to For example, the stakeholders and process involved in selecting the audit measures is described on p26 of the first clinical audit report.

Women who have used the maternity services are also consulted via the NMPA Women and Families Involvement Group to focus on desired measures and design and functionality, understand impact and opportunities to feed into improving information provision in pregnancy.

3.1 Quality improvement goals

The Healthcare Improvement goals for the next phase of the NMPA are a priority for the team and will be a central tenant of the new QI plan.

The goals will build upon the previous work of the NMPA, and be aligned to both the overall aim of the audit and its underlying mechanism of change articulate

The NMPA team have proposed the foundation of these goals will be:

- To reduce adverse outcomes for mothers and babies.
- To improve the number of healthy pregnancies.
- To improve outcomes in disadvantaged groups.
- To identify poor performing services early.
- To explore the feasibility of developing measures to capture the experience of people giving birth.
- To improve data quality and reporting.

In order to ensure the improvement goals deliver on the most urgent and pertinent issues in maternity care, the process for developing these goals can only be received, analysed and validated.

The goals will be developed through workshops with clinicians, data providers, those working at the national level to improve quality, and the Women and Families

This collaboration with key stakeholder and governance groups will ensure the audit remains integrated within the national maternity landscape and adds value

As part of this process, we also plan to evaluate how NMPA data is currently used by maternity teams for example, whether the current methods for presenting specific improvement goals - could improve its accessibility.

The intended output of this process is a set of quantifiable improvement goals, to enable progress to be measured and monitored.

Once the improvement goals have been agreed, we will review and revise our methods for stimulating healthcare improvement at national, regional and local level
